"University Aided Me In My Fight"

BY ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE

"MY OWN STORY" is an exclusive newspaper version of one of the great autobiographies of modern times; La Follette's own story of adventures in politics as written by himself in 1912, together with an authorized narrative of his experiences in the years since then.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENT

La Follette enters political life. He comes immediately into conflict with the political boss and political machine, then completely dominant in his home state, Wisconsin. Despite this opposition, he is elected district attorney of Dane county. The progressive movement already in its infancy. The railroad is determined to smother it, and by their efforts, reasonable control of corporations is delayed, not only in Wisconsin, but in the middle west, and, indeed, throughout the country, by many years.

From that moment in the seventies—excepting once, and then only for a period of two years, when the agricultural and dairy interests defeated the corporations, and elected William D. Hoard governor—until our later fight was finally successful, Wisconsin was a corrupted state governed not by the people but by a group of private and corporate interests.

They secured control of the old Republican party organization—the party with the splendid history—and while its outwardly outwardly dwelt upon the glories of the past and inspired the people with the fervor of patriotic loyalty, these corporate interests were bribing, bossing and thieving within. The machine organization of the Democratic party was as subservient to the railroads and other corporations as the Republican machine, and mastery of legislation was thus rendered complete through all these years.

In refusing to acknowledge the authority of Boss Keyes at the outset I was merely expressing a common and widespread, though largely unconscious, spirit of revolt among the people—a movement of the new generation toward more democracy in human relationships. No one had thought it out in sharply defined terms, but nearly every one felt it. It grew out of the intellectual awakening of which I have already spoken, the very center and inspirational point of which in Wisconsin (Continued on page 3)

Boy Slayers Smile As Confessions Are Read

Grin While They Hear Own Stories

State's Case Reaches Its Climax As Admissions are Read

There's No God, Said Boy

Idea On Religion, Details of Crime Told In Own Words

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO—Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, who pleaded guilty to the kidnapping and murder of 14 year old Robert Franks, today heard read in open court first their denials and then their confessions of the crime.

Benjamin Brothman, one of the attorneys for the boys, helped get into the record this final stage of the state's presentation of evidence, by relieving Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, of the task of reading "the boys' admissions."

The boys listened with little change of expression until Mr. Brothman reached a passage in which Leopold quoted a profane exclamation made to his brother when he learned that his spectacles had been found near the culvert in which he and Loeb had hidden the body of the Frank boy. When this came out in Mr. Brothman's clear voice, both defendants grinned.

Both Boys Smile Again

They smiled again when the account reached a colloquy between Leopold and Mr. Crowe in which the latter quizzed the student on the distinction between grammar and rhetoric. Leopold's answers here, according to the record, were worth an "A" in a class room.

Other points that amused the defendants included Leopold's "hope" that he was an expert automobile driver and his doubt as to whether gin was his favorite beverage. Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, sat with the boys and talked with them from time to time.

Perspectives of lack of dramatics in today's proceedings did not discourage spectators. They came early and so many in excess of the usual quota filtered into the room that Judge Caverly halted the case while "superfluous" persons were weeded out of the audience.

Air Ideas on Religion

At one point in the reading Leopold's ideas on religion were worked into the record.

"There is no God," he was quoted as saying. "I do not believe in a future life when I die. I die all over. Of course that is only an opinion and it can be demonstrated only by dying."

Leopold was busy talking to Mr. Darrow when this occurred and apparently did not hear it.

Loeb, however, leaned forward to catch it, then turned to his companion's conference with the attorney.

Planned Crime In November

Mr. Allen reading direct from his record of what was introduced as Leopold's confession of the Franks murder, quoted the youth as saying that a kidnapping had been planned in the previous November, and step by step led through the kidnapping and ransom plan, involving the $10,000 in old bills of $20 and $50 how to wrap it and how to throw the packages from a moving train.

"The next item was to choose the particular subject," Leopold was quoted. They finally hit upon Bobby Franks and the document described the kidnapping and murder after Loeb had enticed Bobby into the automobile.

"Richard leaned over and struck him on the head with a chisel," Allen read.

"Then for fear he would be seen, Richard pulled the body over into the back and forced a rag into the mouth. Apparently the boy died instantly from the blow on the head and suffocation."

"The trip for disposal of the boy next was described with the quotation: 'It was there I probably lost my glasses.'"

Describe Telephone Call

The document led through the telephone call to the Franks home under the alias George Johnson, and the later sending of the ransom demand money to Mr. Franks.

Leopold was quoted as saying that when Richard and he saw the headlines of a newspaper regarding the finding of the unidentified body of a boy Loeb thought the game was up—but that he thought differently and their plan was continued.

The names of three other lads considered as possible kidnapping victims were brought out—Clarence Coleman and Johnny Levinson, and Irving Hartman.

The reading described the plans for renting an automobile.

Mrs. La Follette Out For Mrs. Kahlenberg

Mrs. R. M. La Follette Mrs. L. A. Kahlenberg

MRS. ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE today endorsed the candidacy of Mrs. L. A. Kahlenberg for member of the assembly from the first district of Dane county.

In a telegram to Mrs. E. C. Hoebel, Rowley ave., Mrs. La Follette paid tribute to Mrs. Kahlenberg's qualifications for the assembly.

Mrs. La Follette is now at Washington and she sent the following telegram to Mrs. Hoebel last night:

Washington, D. C., July 29

Mrs. E. C. Hoebel
Rowley Ave., Madison, Wis.

Because of her special qualifications, fitness and experience, I believe it would be very much in the public interest to have Mrs. Kahlenberg a member of the Wisconsin Legislature. I hope she will be nominated and elected. Regret that your telegram did not come to my attention in time to answer yesterday.

Belle Case La Follette

The other candidates for the assembly in this district are H. W. Sachtjen, state prohibition commissioner; and J. J. McDonald, local attorney.

La Follette to Endorse Blaine; Will Also Ask Sauthoff Support

Mercury Sets Summer Record On Monday Night

Monday night was the hottest recorded this year, officials at the U. S. weather bureau declared Tuesday. The mercury remained above the 70 mark throughout the entire night, the lowest temperature recorded being 71 degrees at 5:30 Tuesday morning.

Monday was not the hottest day in the year, but it was almost so, 86 degrees having been registered at 4 p. m. Thousands of Madisonians sought refuge from the heat in the cooling waters of the lakes.

That Senator La Follette will endorse the candidacy of Gov. John J. Blaine for governor in the August issue of his magazine was the authentic information learned here today.

At the same time, the senator will urge the reelection of the Wisconsin members of Congress, the progressive candidates for state offices and the progressive candidates for legislative offices.

It is also learned that he will specifically endorse the candidacy of Harry Sauthoff for the state senate in Dane county.

There has been some uncertainty as to whether or not the senator would formally endorse the candidacy of the governor. Doubt on this matter was largely removed, however, when Atty. Gen. Ekern agreed to go on a slate with the governor in the coming campaign.

A question of strategy in the presidential campaign is believed to have played an important part in the decision of Senator La Follette and Atty. Gen. Ekern to go along with Blaine. The possible physiological effect of Blaine's defeat in September in the middle of the La Follette presidential campaign is an important factor.

Denial that he will withdraw from the race for governor, regardless of the action of Senator La Follette, was made today by George F. Comings, another progressive candidate.

Mr. Comings said:

"It is inconceivable that the senator who is now a candidate for president will openly ally his candidacy with that of the Dave Rose candidate of the Republican party of his own state. To do so will cost him hundreds of thousands of votes. An independent organization cannot afford Dave Rose affiliation to start with."

"I imagine the report as to what Senator La Follette will do has no more foundation than the report in the same article that I will withdraw. I shall, of course, remain in the race until September second. And I have back of my candidacy the support of nearly all the leading La Follette progressives of the state."

M. B. Olbrich Announces New Gift As Gas Company Withdraws

City Considers Parkway

Benefactor Has More Land If City Wants It At Cost, He Says

Four and a half acres of grounds adjoining Arrowood ave., and the Starkweather creek were offered to the city as a gift by Michael B. Olbrich, local attorney and city benefactor at a meeting of the city planning commission and the council finance committee Monday night, with the provision that the city first purchase the Walterscheid and the Lansing properties which adjoin his property, and with the understanding that this land be converted into an East Side park area.

It was also announced at the meeting Monday night that the Madison Gas and Electric Co. is no longer interested in the property held by Mr. Olbrich and other lands adjacent. John St. John, manager of the company, told a representative of The Capital Times a short time ago that this East Side property was only one of several sites which his company had in mind and that "if there is the slightest objection we don't want it."

No prices have been formally placed on any of the properties concerned in the park area plan. Mr. Olbrich also owns or has options on other tracts. The city has purchased a half acre of the city's property by the city's purchase.

Political War Opens As Time to File Ends

Four In Race for Sheriff; State, District Candidates File

With contests looming in seven of the twelve county office and assembly district races in Dane county and with several hours yet left in which candidates may file nomination papers, indications point to a spirited primary election Sept. 2 in this county.

With the exception of one office, that of coroner, a complete Republican slate of candidates had filed nomination papers with County Clerk George J. Fjelstad early Tuesday afternoon.

It is understood that the entire Democratic slate of candidates endorsed at the county conference Thursday night will be led late this afternoon.

Five Out For Sheriff

One of the principal contests will be that for sheriff. William H. McCormick, present undersheriff, Madison, Otto H. Burmeister, Stouten, have led Joseph Dargatz, Madison, will file late Tuesday. It is also expected that the papers of William P. Whalen, Fitchburg, will be filed today.

Carl K. Herried, Stouten, candidate for sheriff, filed his nomination papers at the courthouse here late Tuesday morning. Mr. Herried's filing was an official endorsement of the rumor that he would withdraw from the race.

In the race for recorder of deeds there are four contestants. They are: C. A. Lewis, Sun Prairie, incumbent; Sherman Burgess Madison, Clarence L. Fenrite, Bloomington, and C. A. Field, Madison.

In the first assembly district of Dane county one candidate, Royal Gordon, has withdrawn. Those still in the race are: Mrs. L. A. Kahlenberg, Rowley, and C. D. Breitkre. The Rev. O. J. H. Preis of De Forest was to file his papers as a candidate for state senator from the 26th senatorial district in opposition to Harry Sauthoff of Madison.

In the third assembly district, Albert Baker of Blue Mounds will oppose Carl Grimstad, it is understood. Harvey E. Fargo, Mt. Vernon, has withdrawn.

Phillip La Follette is opposed for district attorney on the Republican ticket, but the Democrats have endorsed Alvin Loverud of Stouten.

County Clerk Fjelstad may be opposed by Austin Johnson of Madison who has announced himself a candidate for that office.

Herbert F. Hansen, clerk of the circuit court, filed his papers for reelection on Tuesday. Coroner Joseph Stephenson is opposed but had not filed early Tuesday.

Nursery Expert Is Dead Here

L. J. Tucker

L. J. Tucker Succumbs to Fever Attack

Death Comes to Nurseryman as He Plans Trip to West

L. J. Tucker, 52, for 20 years connected with the McKay Nursery Co. of Madison and Waterloo, died at the Bradley Memorial hospital Monday afternoon of typhoid fever.

Mr. Tucker was well known throughout southern Wisconsin through his long connection with the McKay Nursery company.

He was born at Pardeeville, Wis., attended in the public schools, and took a collegiate course. He was principal of several schools in Wisconsin and served one year as county superintendent of Columbia county.

Mr. Tucker leaves a wife and one daughter, Lillian. The Tucker home is at 1916 W. Lawn ave. Mr. Tucker was active in the Masonic order and the Methodist church.

Twenty years ago he entered the service of the McKay Co. as a salesman. He rose in the management of the company's affairs and was secretary and treasurer at the time of his death.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 10:30 at the home, the Rev. J. M. Walters of the First Methodist church officiating.

Ucello Held for Trial On State Dry Law Charge

Sam Ucello, proprietor of a pool hall in the "Little Sicily" colony here, charged with violation of the state dry law, was held for trial at the September term of court by Judge O. A. Stoen after a preliminary hearing Tuesday.

Gordon De Wit, 19, and Frank Weber, 22, Madison youths who were arrested at Camp Douglas last week ago testified for the state they purchased the liquor from Ucello.

A motion by William Spohn, Ucello's attorney, that De Wit and Weber also be made to stand trial was denied by Judge Stoen. Mr. Spohn claimed that the state's witnesses had themselves committed a crime. Dist. Atty. T. C. Lewis stated that the state dry law grants immunity to persons who turn state evidence.

A daughter was born Thursday at the General hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Ohm. Mr. Ohm is a member of the law firm of Rill and Ohm. He resides at 1811 Vilas st.

Weather Report
Furnished by U. S. Weather Bureau

The highest temperature yesterday was 86 at 4 p. m. and the low last night was 71 at 5:30 a. m. The sun set at 7:23.

L'Follette In Demand On Commission

Interests Delaying Report On Cost of Production, Says Senator

Tariff Body Fails to Act

Members Intimidated By Powerful Combine, He Declares

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Declaring that he had reasons to believe that representatives of the sugar interests were delaying a report by the tariff commission upon an investigation into costs of sugar production, Sen. La Follette today called upon the commission for an explanation.

In a formal statement the Wisconsin senator reviewed the history of the commission's investigation of the sugar tariff, asserted that the sugar interests are powerful enough to delay action "through the highest official channels of the government" and added that "attempts have been made to intimidate and otherwise obstruct the action of the commission."

He directed a letter to the chairman of the commission asking for the complete record of the case.

The investigation which the commission is making was ordered nearly eighteen months ago. Sen. La Follette said, "following disclosure that the Republican chairman of the senate finance committee, acting in conjunction with a member of the president's cabinet, had sought to use the tariff-making power as a means to compel Cuban sugar growers to reduce their production and thus to increase sugar prices."

The investigation, he said, had been completed long ago, the senator said, and for several weeks there had been persistent reports that the commission was ready to be made public.

U. S. Steel Declares 50 Cents Extra Dividend

NEW YORK—Directors of the U. S. Steel Corp. today declared an extra dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock in addition to the regular quarterly payment of $1.25 a share. Extra dividends of 50 cents a share had been made in the two preceding quarters.

Total earnings of the corporation for the second quarter of 1924 were $41,381,039, contrasted with $56,073,445 in the first three months of the year. Surplus for the quarter amounted to $8,575,079, compared with $16,718,624 in the passing quarter.

Gas Company Selects Site for New Plant

The Madison Gas and Electric Co. has selected a site for its proposed new auxiliary steam-propelled generating plant, it was announced by John St. John, manager. Mr. St. John, however, declined to make any announcement as to the location of the site.

The company has been considering three sites, one of which is near the Dane county fair grounds. Another site is said to be off Monroe, near Nakoma, and the third may be one beyond the eastern city limits on Lake Monona.

Woman President? Not Yet, Except By Chance. No "Old Men's Diseases" Natural or Necessary. Just Bones; We Dig Our Grave With Our Teeth. Here Is Advice of a Wise Doctor.

By Arthur Brisbane

JOHN R. VOORHIS, oldest of schoolholders, aged 95, predicts a schoolholder, aged 95, predicts a woman president. She will come, but not in fifty years. Many women in the United States would make presidents better than any with two exceptions: Thomas Jefferson.

But man, proud man, digest in little brief authority, will take a long time to get over his superiority complex.

Men of low intelligence sincerely believe that they are in some mysterious way woman's superior and such men decide presidential elections.

If a woman becomes president before 1980 it will be through promotion of a vice president. That might happen within a generation.

Davis Belasco is better. Senator Lodge must undergo a second operation. He has strength to endure it, fortunately. Too many take for granted "old men's diseases" just as "children's diseases" are taken for granted.

There is no reason why children should have the mumps, measles, scarlet fever, chicken pox, that parents ignorantly call "natural and necessary." Every such disease weakens the child. None is natural or necessary.

The old men's disease, rheumatism, bladder and kidney trouble, hardening of the arteries are not

"natural or necessary," either. Neglected teeth that cause self poisoning by absorption in the blood, auto-intoxication caused by a clogged-up condition of the intestinal tract, following unwise eating, send millions to the grave that ought to have their most useful years of life ahead.

"We dig our graves with our teeth," was well said, and, also, "half of what we eat keeps us alive, the other half kills us."

If a man past fifty, not condemned to heavy labor for a living, would understand that two or three ounces of meat a day is enough, with green vegetables in abundance "for bulk," five doctors could do the work of ten.

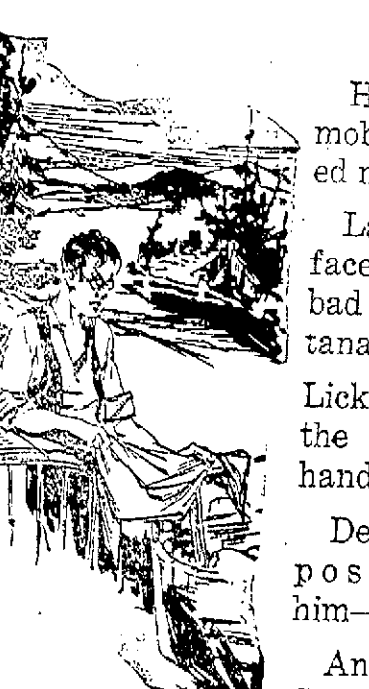

Frenchmen are taught from childhood, "leave the table hungry."

Our people from childhood until premature death are urged to eat more.

Ten minutes after you leave the table, which means as soon as digestion has begun, appetite ends. By getting up hungry you can do without doctors or medicines and live longer. But don't be like Napoleon, eat short your meal time. Eat more slowly, chew more thoroughly, eat less. That's the advice of Dr. Brown Sequard, one of the wisest doctors.

They have dug up the bones of William the Third in England, and a great fuss would have been made Continued on page 3.

Unions Ignore Proposed Cut In Wages Here

Building Trades Alliance Fails to Act On Proposal

No action regarding a decrease in wages of building trades employees was taken at the meeting of the Madison Building Trades Alliance Monday night in Labor Temple.

The matter was proposed by the Master Builders' association early this month. The association proposed that the workers accept voluntarily a reduction in wages, claiming that the decrease would stimulate building.

The request of the employers was that the present contract between the employers and employees be annulled. The contract is effective until next April.

After a lengthy discussion Monday night, the employees decided to take no action, and the present wage scale will continue in effect.

Walton League National Officer Will Speak Here

Dr. James Lattimore Himmrod, of Geneva, Ill., national lecturer of the Genack Walton League of America, will be the speaker at the university summer school Monday afternoon, Aug. 4 at 3:00 o'clock. Himmrod will give his lecture on "This America of Ours." He has given this address scores of times on the Chautauqua and Lyceum platform.

Mr. Gen. Leonard Wood, now governor of the Philippines, describes Dr. Himmrod as "one of America's foremost orators." He has spoken many times in Wisconsin. His book on Nathan Hale will be off the press in the near future.

Anderson Held In Jail for Driving While Drunk

Andrew Anderson pleaded guilty in superior court Tuesday to driving while intoxicated and to taking a car without the owner's consent. He was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

Lions To Picnic Club Members, Families To Spend Saturday Afternoon At Camp Wakanda

The picnic of the Madison Lions club will be held Saturday afternoon at Camp Wakanda. The program, which has been arranged by a committee headed by J. M. Waterman, will start at 2 o'clock.

Games, races, water events, a ball game, horse shoe contest and a tug-of-war are on the program and will be participated in by the Lions and their families.

Picnicers will bring their own lunches. Coffee, ice cream, peanuts and pop will be served by the committee. Members have been asked to notify C. H. Sanderson whether they will attend.

Members of the committee acting with Mr. Waterman are Guy S. Lowman, C. H. Sanderson, William Hastings, Herman Sackjen, V. S. Bond, Frank Caughey and Dr. C. E. Reinhardt.

Many Back Daggett Labor Candidate For Sheriff Gets 2,300 Signatures For Nomination

More than 2,300 signatures in nomination of Joseph Daggett, Madison, for sheriff of Dane county were counted by the Daggett-for-Sheriff committee of the Madison Federation of Labor which met Monday night.

Nomination papers were received by the committee from 35 towns and villages outside of Madison, in addition to papers from every ward in the city. Only 1,000 names will be filed with the county clerk by the committee, it was announced by the committee Tuesday.

The committee Monday night formally adopted the slogan: "Daggett-for-Sheriff." Members of the committee are: William L. Forset, Fred H. McClain, Henry Croft, Sr., T. Deauchamp and F. C. Ramsdale.

To Seek Action Dist. Atty. Lewis To Take Up Jail Pact With Milwaukee Prosecutor

Dist. Atty. Theodore Lewis will make a trip to Milwaukee Thursday to come to a definite agreement with Milwaukee officials regarding the jail contract between Dane county and Milwaukee county, by which liquor law violators in Dane county who are sentenced to 60 days or more in jail may be lodged in the Milwaukee house of correction.

The Milwaukee county board, which has been in session most of the summer, has adjourned without taking definite action on the proposal.

Mr. Lewis will attempt to come to an agreement Thursday with the Milwaukee county district attorney.

Says Blaine Errs Tax Figures Of Governor Are Misleading, Declares Hirst

(By the Associated Press)

MINERAL POINT, Wis.—The taxpayers of Wisconsin are being "confused" by the present governor regarding the question of taxation, declared Mr. Hirst, Republican candidate for governor, Monday night.

Mr. Hirst urged voters to write the state tax commission for official statistics on the taxation problem.

"Although the state expenditures increased approximately nine million dollars during the first two years of the present administration, compared with the previous two years, and state taxes $13,000,000, the present executive is trying to dodge this issue and does not meet it," declared Mr. Hirst.

Auto Plunges Off Cliff At Dells; Man Has Narrow Escape

Takes Drop of 40 Feet Into River

Charles Behrens, Canton, O., Has Miraculous Escape From Death

KILBOURN, Wis.—Charles Behrens of Canton, O., a tourist who has been camping at the Wisconsin Dells here, narrowly escaped death here on Monday when he fell from the top of a 40-foot cliff into the Wisconsin river, his Ford automobile plunging after him.

Behrens was crawling in his car when the accident occurred. Apparently he had left the machine in gear, and when the engine started, the car proceeded ahead piling him off the edge of the cliff and tumbling over the abyss after him.

The water was between 20 and 25 feet deep at the base of the cliff.

A big crowd gathered and waited for Behrens to come to the surface. He did not come up immediately and members of his family became hysterical and others made preparations to effect his rescue.

However, before anyone had time to reach the base of the cliff Behrens emerged and swam to shore. Upon examination it was revealed that he suffered two broken ribs and a few lacerations about the head and body.

The car was later recovered from the river, but was badly wrecked.

about that in the day when the "magnificent" kings were just bones.

Antiquarians are hunting the grave of Attila, not far from Budapest. Interesting things would be found near the skeleton of the "Scourge of God," as he proudly called himself. He is one, by the way, that killed himself with his own sword. Celebrating his marriage to a handsome young captive girl, he ate tremendously, as Huns and Tartars did when they had the chance, and died of indigestion.

An old story says the beautiful young captive who had seen the murderous work of the man who boasted, "Grass never grows where my horse cuts his foot," murdered him on their wedding night.

The story has not been proved but you could believe it had you seen the monumental girls of Hungary and the Balkans that attended Prof. Popper's class in the Budapest conservatory some years ago.

Louis Seibold says radical democrats will be disappointed in John W. Davis' acceptance. Seibold, who often gets information in advance, says Davis will declare against public ownership of railroads or public ownership of any kind. That may disappoint radical democrats, but it is not to be surprised then.

Charles Dana Gibson, entertaining Mr. Davis at Black Harbor, reports in his close life a picture showing Uncle Sam with a magnifying glass, examining two "punches." One is labeled "democracy," the other "republicanism." Uncle Sam says, "I am told there is a difference between these things, but I can't see it." There you have the campaign as many see it.

Manager of Nurseries at Pardecville Dies

PORTAGE, Wis.—A. S. Riley, 43 years old, general manager of the North Star nurseries at Pardecville, died Monday after a paralytic stroke.

John P. Soeldner, 65 years old, former member of the Columbia county board, died at Kilbourn today.

9 Year Old Boy Tries Out For Campaign Slogan Prize

A NINE-YEAR-OLD BOY, Ewald Lorenz of Black Earth, Wis., has entered the contest to find the best slogan for the La Follette-Wheeler campaign. Ewald's contribution follows:

I had a little rooster,
I set him on the fence;
He crowed: "La Follette for president!"
Because he had some sense.

Ewald's slogan was one of the scores which poured into The Capital Times' office today. C. B. James of Richland Center has sent $25 to The Capital Times to be offered as a prize, and The Capital Times has added another $25 to the prize money.

Additional slogans submitted follow:

Miss Lenroot's Salary Boost Starts Fuss

Gets Increase of $1700 a Year; Now Receives $5,200 Annually

Washington Bureau
The Capital Times

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Employees of the U. S. department of labor today expressed indignation at the $1700 raise in salary for Katherine Lenroot, daughter of Senator Lenroot, as assistant chief of the children's bureau of the department of labor.

They declare that it was unfair for Miss Lenroot to receive such an increase when salary increases for clerks and other workers in the bureau are comparatively slight.

Under the regrading of government employees that went into effect July 1, she receives a salary increase of practically 50 per cent—a jump in pay from $3500 to $5,200 a year.

Employees of the labor department have announced their intentions of presenting Miss Lenroot's case to the federation of federal employees with the request that this organization take it up with the reclassification board which fixed the new salaries.

Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the bureau received a $1,000 increase.

Miss Lenroot has been connected with the children's bureau for several years. Formerly she held the position of chief of the editorial division.

for Governor on the Republican ticket; it was announced at the Hirst headquarters. Petitions containing more than 8,000 names were filed with the secretary of state Monday. Mr. Hirst claims to have established a record for total signatures.

"I believe this establishes a record for the state in the number of signatures on nomination papers of a candidate for governor," Mr. Hirst said in a statement. "Up to this morning, nomination papers had been received with the names of 23,160 signers."

Hirst states that his papers included more than one and one half per cent of the voters in 58 counties and more than one per cent in all of the 71 counties.

A majority of the candidates for major state offices already have filed nomination petitions. Late on Monday the complete Socialist state ticket was filed, including the petitions of Victor L. Berger, Milwaukee, for re-election to congress from the fifth district.

Other socialist candidates filing included: for governor, William F. Quick, Milwaukee; Lieutenant Governor, Peter Gillis, Arkansas, Wis.; attorney general, Robert A. Hess, Milwaukee; secretary of state, Ida Foster, Milwaukee; state treasurer, George Easthill, Green Bay; for congress, fourth district, Leo Krzycki, Milwaukee.

Atty. Gen. Herman L. Ekern Tuesday filed his nomination papers. He is the last of the present state officials to file. Henry Johnson, former state treasurer, filed petitions for state treasurer against Ekern.

Up to Tuesday Atty. Gen. Ekern and Henry A. Huber, state senator and candidate for lieutenant governor, have no opposition in Republican ranks. No other Republican candidates have announced for these positions.

George E. Comings, the third Republican candidate for Governor, also filed his nomination petitions Tuesday. He announced that the petitions contained considerable more than the required number of signatures.

Tabulation of petitions and nomination signatures will begin in the secretary of state's office immediately after nomination certificates issued. The list will include candidates for the state assembly and senate as well as other offices. A large number of legislative candidates were expected to file Tuesday.

Sen. Lodge Recovering; Coolidge Sends Message
CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, recovering from an emergency operation performed on Sunday, looked today to be passing an even more comfortable day at a hospital here than yesterday when his physicians asked him to smoke and "eat what he pleased."

Messages, including one from President and Mrs. Coolidge, sent from the White House poured in on the senator wishing him a speedy recovery. In a few days the physicians will hold a consultation regarding a second operation.

Neenah Man Files For Attorney General Office
Mayhew Mott, Neenah, Monday filed nomination papers as a candidate on the Prohibition ticket for attorney general. He is the first to file for this position.

Other filings were: Ray J. Nye, Superior, congress, eleventh district; Jimmy Reilly, Milwaukee, congress, fourth; Ernest Brunken, Milwaukee, congress fifth; Herman T. Lange, Eau Claire, state senate, twenty-eighth district; John Englund, Wittenberg, state senate, fourth district.

Four Fined, One Fails to Appear for Speeding
Three men were fined $10 and costs each in superior court Monday after they had pleaded guilty to speeding and a fourth was given a fine of $15 and costs on the same charge. Ed Otis, charged with the same offense, failed to appear.

Harry Boyd Ingward, Howes, and Walter Combs each paid a fine of $10 and costs. Arthur Schluter was fined $15 and costs.

Hans Peterson Held For Driving Car While Drunk
Hans Peterson pleaded guilty in superior court Monday to a charge of driving while intoxicated and he was remanded to the custody of the sheriff by Judge O. A. Stolen.

David Lloyd, charged with the same offense, was dismissed on payment of costs. Gus Brisse failed to appear in court to answer a similar charge.

Use 70,000 Gallons of Oil On Madison Streets
Oiling of Madison streets has been completed by the city street department. The amount of oil used this year totaled 70,000 gallons as compared with 50,000 gallons last summer. The cost was approximately 10 cents a gallon for 30,000, the remainder being purchased at six cents.

Bryan Won't Call Out Farmers and Workers On Mobilization Day

LINCOLN, Neb.—When the nation mobilizes its industrial and military forces in mock war formation on Sept. 12 Nebraska will ignore the call to arms, and go peacefully on getting ready to husk corn.

Gov. Charles W. Bryan, Democratic nominee for vice president, has refused to co-operate with President Coolidge in the national test of strength as far as the mobilizing of industrial and civic forces are concerned.

"I will co-operate in the mobilization of military and armed forces," the governor's brother said, "but as far as asking the farmers to join in—that's carrying it a little too far."

Idea Wrong, He Says
"Mobilization of industrial and civic workers would give the wrong aspect of the day to the world," Gov. Bryan insisted. "Such a plan would seriously interfere with work of the farmers and those employed in shops, at the desks and counting-rooms; it would mean an economic waste, give the wrong impression to other nations."

"Mobilization day amounts to a draft upon all civilians. It would be so repulsive to farmers and workers that I could not issue an order or recommendation to that effect and, if I could, they would rebel against it."

"President Coolidge evidently was misinformed as to the meaning of mobilization day," the Nebraska governor added.

City Is Offered Park Addition By M.B. Olbrich

whenever the city council wishes to do so.

With the withdrawal of the gas company and the determined sentiment in favor of development of a park area on the East Side which recently manifested itself in a resolution passed by the East Side Business Men's Association, it was decided Monday night to refer the entire matter to the city planning commission with instructions to make a study of the land with a view toward carrying out the park area plan outlined by O. C. Simmonds, Chicago, landscape architect, and Mr. Olbrich, Ald. D. C. Sullivan made the motion to refer the matter to the commission.

"I am not asking the city to purchase one parcel of land on which I have control," Mr. Olbrich said. "I am willing to hold these lands and pay the interest on them until such time that the city sees its way clear to take them over practically at the cost it has been to maintain them. I would like to see the city purchase these other lands for park purposes so that there would be no longer that they would be sold and developed by commercial interest which would spoil the beauty of the vicinity for park purposes."

The offer of Mr. Olbrich resulted in the committee voting unanimously to refer the petition to the city plan commission. An urgent appeal that the city invest in its shore lands was made by a number of residents of the city.

"There should be one acre of park for every 100 residents in a city," Prof. L. S. Smith, city planner and member of the city plan commission, said. "This was true a few years ago when the city had about 300 acres in park lands. The recent rapid growth of the city is destroying this ratio."

There are two kinds of parks which should be provided in every city the size of Madison," Prof. Smith said. "The small parks in the business district and in the center of the city such as the capital park. The outlying parks which should be large. The city plan commission should have a definite park program to follow in the future."

Of all bond issues none is so justifiable as a park issue for park purposes. A park will never wear out. Many cities have municipal golf courses charging a small fee for the privilege of playing on them. L. E. Gettle, of the railroad commission, declared that there was no other site as desirable for park purposes as the lands adjoining the Starbuck creek on the eastern shore of Lake Monona.

"I do not believe that the project will cost more than $42,000," Mr. Gettle said. "I understand that even without the acquisition of the marshy areas the city could acquire 23 acres of land by dredging a shallow portion of the lake and filling in up to the dock line established by the legislature."

George Sautoff, resident of the East Side, urged the city to provide for the future.

"A few years ago residents of the city subscribed about $7,500 for which they purchased six acres in the vicinity and turned it over to the city for athletic purposes," Mr. Sautoff said. "At that time Mr. Olbrich declared that he would give $400 toward equipment of the field any time that the city saw fit to use the property. This has never been asked for."

The East Side needs a park. They are now forced to go over three miles to a park suitable for picnics. It is true that Tenney park is nearer but the lagoons cut

I was silent for a moment, little Marquise. I could not accuse my own sister, neither could I let poor Karl be blamed for something I knew he could not do.

"But Jack, you must remember that Karl is now engaged to my sister and the preparations for the wedding are all made—the invitations are out, everything—

"That is just it. Whitney has found he could not go through with it, consequently he sent me this letter."

"I do not, I cannot believe it, Jack."

"Well, you will believe it when I take those damned beads and go over and twist them around his throat and choke the confession out of him."

I could see, little Marquise, that we were not getting anywhere, so I simply said:

"Jack, do you realize that tomorrow night we're going to have a party in celebration of our third anniversary, and we are at this moment in the midst of the worst quarrel we have ever had?"

"We've got to settle this thing some way, or at least call a truce until after then."

Jack turned toward the window. He had been standing the entire time since he came into my room.

"Of course you can do what you please, Leslie, but I shan't be here for that celebration. I'm taking these pearls back to Whitney as I told you I would do tonight. I shall expect you to give me that six thousand dollars I sent you, and with what I have in the bank which I intended to invest very shortly in a splendid profit-making concern, I think I will be able to make up to him the amount of money he has spent. At least I can give him my note for thirty days for the remainder."

"Suppose when you told me about little Jack, when you told me that the child I loved as my own, was your child and its mother was Paula Perier, suppose when you told me this I had said: 'All right, you do what you please. Today is my day for washing our dirty linen in public and I am going to proceed to do it.'"

"If you insist upon doing this thing you have threatened, John Prescott, I will recall all the invitations, either by telephone or wire, this afternoon. I'm not going to celebrate my third wedding anniversary alone."

"However, I may as well tell you that you cannot take my pearls back and that I had no more idea than you of the pearls being mine, and I'm going to keep them. I may as well remind you, also, that little Jack is also mine, and if you find it will be impossible for yourself to be present tomorrow evening, there will be no party, then or ever after as far as you are concerned."

"If you're not standing beside me to receive our guests tomorrow night, whatever direction your rage and jealousy may take afterwards, I will never speak to you again, Jack Prescott."

"I acknowledge I have made a mistake, many of them, since our marriage, but you of course understand that I had no more idea than you of the pearls being mine, and I'm going to keep them. I may as well remind you, also, that little Jack is also mine, and if you find it will be impossible for yourself to be present tomorrow evening, there will be no party, then or ever after as far as you are concerned."

think I will be able to make up to him the amount of money he has spent. At least I can give him my note for thirty days for the remainder."

"Suppose when you told me about little Jack, when you told me that the child I loved as my own, was your child and its mother was Paula Perier, suppose when you told me this I had said: 'All right, you do what you please. Today is my day for washing our dirty linen in public and I am going to proceed to do it.'"

"If you insist upon doing this thing you have threatened, John Prescott, I will recall all the invitations, either by telephone or wire, this afternoon. I'm not going to celebrate my third wedding anniversary alone."

MY OWN STORY "University Aided Me In My Fight"

BY ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE

ain was then, and has been ever since, the university at Madison. It is difficult, indeed, to overestimate the part which the university has played in the Wisconsin revolution.

In all my fights in Wisconsin, the university and the students have always stood firmly behind me. In a high sense the university has been the repository of progressive ideas; it has always enjoyed both free thought and free speech.

While I was governor, I sought the constant advice and service of the university in making the progress of the state. Many times when harassed by the conditions which confronted me, I called in for conference President Van Hise, Dr. Ely, Professor Commons, Dr. Reinisch and others.

I was sworn in as district attorney of Dane county in January, 1921. I was not yet 26, and, besides the defense of a tramp charged with assault with intent to kill, a few collection cases, and two civil cases in the circuit court, I had had little trial experience.

I never worked harder in my life than I did during the next two years. I worked almost day and night. I liked it and from the first I was successful with most of my cases. I kept my word to the farmers literally; although I often had to meet the foremost lawyers in southern Wisconsin, no legal assistance was ever employed in my office or to aid in the trial of a case while I was district attorney.

At the end of two years' service, so well satisfied were the people, that the Boss did not even oppose my re-nomination and I was the only man on the Republican county ticket who was re-elected.

During this time I began to see some further aspects of boss rule and unrepresentative government, although I had little idea then what it all meant.

It was a common practice, for men caught in the criminal net or the friends of those men, not to go forward honestly and try their cases in the public tribunal, but to repair to the boss and bring under-represented and secret influence to bear in blocking the wheels of justice.

And who should be the influence of the boss was all-powerful in the election or appointment of sheriffs, police, constables, usually the district attorney, and even judges.

With their official life in some measure dependent upon the Boss, mere nod or a request might change the whole course of justice.

I began to feel this pressure in all sorts of cases; they did not attempt to reach me directly, knowing that I had defied the Boss in my election, but it came about in the various ways in which witnesses faded out of the reach of the sheriff's office, in the disagreement of juries, and in other conditions.

Under such conditions any man inside the political ring, or a man with great political influence, could escape punishment for almost any offense.

I early determined I would make absolutely no distinctions between men in the administration of justice, and I soon had a very severe test. Sanderson, chairman of the Republican State Central committee, came to Madison at the organization of the legislature, got to gambling and drinking and went to bed in a state of intoxication.

Feeling someone trying to take his money, he aroused himself enough to make an outcry, and the next morning the story was all over town. It came up to me and in the regular course of my duty, I went to the hotel to get Sanderson to make a complaint. He was insubordinate; told me it was none of my business, and that if I knew where my political interests lay, I had better keep it quiet. I told him plainly that we did not permit such things to happen in Madison without prosecution and that I should require him to swear out a warrant. Sanderson got out of Madison by the first train and tried to get out of the state, but I caught him with a subpoena at Milwaukee. I also got the fellow who was charged with taking the money; but the pressure on the witness was so great that I could not convict him. However, the purpose of the prosecution—to make the law supreme in Dane county—was well served; and instead of incurring by charges for re-election, the case decidedly helped me.

During the four years I served as district attorney I had practically nothing to do with politics; I made as good a campaign as I knew how for re-election, but I knew nothing and cared nothing for the political organizations of the county and state.

It is facts that settle cases; the law is always the same. And this rule applies to things of larger importance than criminal cases. Facts count here everywhere. Whether the matter is a railroad legislation or a tariff, it is always a question of digging out the facts upon which to base your case.

The first and rather surprising suggestion made to me to become a candidate for congress came about in this way.

Samuel A. Harper and I were classmates and chums in the university. In 1884, my last year as district attorney, he came to visit me in Madison. He was full of indignation about the spirit of youth, six feet tall, lithe and athletic, he was so handsome and brilliant a fellow. He possessed the most unerring political judgment of any one I have ever known.

Our lives were knit together in a way that rarely comes to men. He became my law partner in 1886, and was my closest friend and most trusted adviser until his death in 1898.

Sam remained with me for several years, and he said:

"Bob, why don't you go to congress? You can go to Congress just as well as not. You have the opportunity of a public career, and you have the stuff in you."

He developed his plan:

"There are five counties in this district," he said. "The two big counties, Dane and Grant, outnumber all the others in voting population. Now I live in Grant and you live in Dane. I'll carry Grant for you and you carry Dane for yourself. They will control the convention—and you go to Congress."

The situation was favorable. In the previous Congressional convention, George C. Hazelton, who had served the district three terms, had been a candidate for re-nomination.

I was district attorney, and a candidate, withdrew from the convention and was nominated by his followers in a separate convention. This resulted in the election of the Democratic candidate, Burr Jones of Madison, and left much bitterness among the Republicans.

Keyes' enmity toward me natural. He was the Hazelton supporters' friendly to me.

Sam and I started out on the campaign as though it were some fine game, and with great enjoyment of the prospect. By this time I was thoroughly well acquainted in Dane county.

Besides my service as district attorney I had built up such a good record in law practice that in the year 1893 I had more civil cases on the calendar than any other lawyer in Madison. Well, I conducted my case among the farmers very much as I had gone about it four years before.

It was the general feeling, I knew, that I had made good as district attorney and I argued that I could faithfully serve as Congressman. I found many friends among Democrats as well as among Republicans.

It was not long before the machine found out what I was doing. The so-called "Madison ring," which controlled that Congressional district, was composed of Keyes, Phil Spooner, a brother of John C. Spooner, Oakley, United States marshal, and Willie Malm, a brother-in-law of John C. Spooner, or-in-law of John C. Spooner, as deputy marshal. As I was on my way home one day, Phil Spooner stopped me and said:

"What is this I hear about your running for Congress?"

I told him my purpose.

"Do you expect to be nominated?"

I told him I did.

"Don't you see," he said, "that there hasn't been a congressman nominated for fifteen years? I can't have your support. Why haven't you consulted Keyes and Oakley and me?"

I said: "I know of no reason why I should consult you. I've been out in the country consulting the people, and I'm going to consult a good many more."

"Well, young man," he said, "you can't go to Congress."

I said: "I think I can; anyhow, I'm going to try."

Madison Screen And Stage

AT THE PARKWAY

One of the largest star casts ever assembled appear in "The Law Forbids," Bernard McConville's appealing story of a young couple's supposed incompatibility, which is having its first local showing at the Parkway Theatre these days.

This cast, directed by Jess Robbins, includes Baby Peggy, "Marriage Morals" with an all star cast comes Thursday for three days' stay.

AT THE MAJESTIC

One of the most atmospheric scenes in a picture that is filled with atmosphere is in the scene of Betty Elythe's latest starring vehicle, "Sinner or Saint," which opens a three day engagement at the Majestic Theatre today.

Miss Elythe plays the role of a fortune teller and medium, and the plot hinges on her being unmasked as a beautiful and clever fraud.

A two reel comedy that will make you forget the heat, and the latest news weekly complete this program.

AT THE STRAND

In "A Self-Made Failure" which is now showing at the Strand theatre J. M. McDermott again scores a clean knockout. The production has everything essential to a picture success—story, direction, cast, acting, sets and photography. But most of all, it has human appeal.

A Baby Peggy comedy, Aesop's Fables and latest news weekly are the added features.

AT THE ORPHEUM

It's the prevalent idea all over town that the Dorothy La Vern Stock Co., are doing more for the people of Madison during these hot days than all the electric fans. You just laugh so hard and so long that you don't have time to feel the heat.

This is especially true of "Twin Beds," the attraction this week. Better go to the Orpheum and cool off. Next week "The Bat".

August Brides Are Honored at Series of Dinners, Teas and Showers Held This Week

Elgie Tomlin Is Honor Guest At Mineral Point

Mrs. Roy Teague Hostess; Adelin Briggs Is Honored

BY BERTHA ELLER
Social affairs are centering around dinners for visiting guests and teas and showers for brides-to-be.

Forty guests attended a miscellaneous shower for which Mrs. Roy Teague was hostess at her home in Mineral Point, complimenting her niece, Miss Elgie Tomlin, who is to be an August bride. Miss Tomlin with her mother, Mrs. W. J. Tomlin, 1605 Chaboureaux avenue, have been guests for a few days at the home of Mrs. Teague. The shower was followed by an evening of informal entertainment, and cakes and ice cream were served. Miss Eleanor Riley entertained at luncheon and afternoon bridge today at her home, 1146 Oakridge avenue, in honor of Miss Adelin Briggs who will be married August 30. The guests included Mrs. Ralph Horton, Mrs. Thomas Hefty, Miss Julia Hanks, Miss Edwina Baxter, Miss Helen Gill, Miss Sada Buckmaster, Miss Mary Ellen Ferguson, Miss Katherine Schmiedeman, Miss Madeline Keenan, Miss Martha Buel, and Miss Dorothy Wright. The Gamma Phi Beta alumnae association will entertain at a tea tomorrow in honor of Miss Briggs and Miss Helen McCarthy. Miss McCarthy will be married August 31. The tea will be at the home of Mrs. Ralph Jackson, 802 East Gorman street.

The Madison Community Music committee will give a dinner Wednesday evening at the College club in honor of E. Robert Schmitz, who is conducting summer master classes in music in the city. About 25 are expected to be present. Prof. E. B. Gordon is chairman of the music committee. The committee has arranged for the dinner at Mrs. C. A. Sakison, chairman, Mrs. Edward Law, Mrs. C. V. Seaton, and Mrs. C. P. Conrad. Other guests at the dinner will be Miss Marion Cassell and Miss Lucy D. Bogue, assistants of Mr. Schmitz. Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Mendenhall are entertaining at dinner Wednesday evening for Miss Alma L'Honnemmede, Cincinnati, Ohio, cousin of Mrs. Carl Russell Fish, who has been visiting here for the past month. Miss L'Honnemmede will leave Wednesday night for her home. Twelve guests will be present at the dinner. Another out of town guest will be Mrs. Barry Corb, wife of Professor Corb of the University at Portland, Oregon. Mrs. Corb is a daughter of Prof. E. B. Owen and a sister of Mr. William Kieckhefer of this city. She will leave for the west August 2.

OPENS DANCING CLASSES

Miss Cornelia Barwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Barwell, who has just returned from St. Anthony, Newfoundland, will conduct classes in interpretative dancing here during August and September. Classes for private instruction will be held in the morning and afternoon. Miss Barwell studied with the pupil of Mrs. Van Winger, who was at one time a teacher of dance at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York city. She will continue her studies there this winter. She taught at the Wisconsin School of Music for three years and during the past year taught at the Graceland Laboratory mission. While in St. Anthony, Miss Barwell well wrote and directed a play and pageant which was presented by Newfoundland people and members of the mission staff.

At the close of the term, Miss Barwell's Madison classes will give an outdoor exhibition.

ENTERTAINED IN WESTPORT

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clemmons, E. Dayton st., were entertained in Westport over the week end.

HEADACHE GONE TIRED NO MORE

Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Hopes
Other Women Will Benefit
by Her Experience

Skowhegan, Maine.—"I was sick most of the time and could not get around to do my work without being all tired out so I would have to lie down. One day when I was reading the paper I saw the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertisement and saw what it did for other women, so I thought I would try it. I have taken three bottles, and cannot begin to tell you what it has already done for me. I do all my work now and keep up the whole day long without lying down. I have no more headaches nor tired feelings. I hope every woman who takes the Vegetable Compound will get as much benefit out of it as I have." Mrs. PERCY W. RICHARDSON, R.F.D. No. 2, Skowhegan, Maine.

You have just read how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped Mrs. Richardson. She gave it a trial after she saw what it had done for other women. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been doing good.

Eagles Expect 8,000 At Park Picnic Sunday

Program Begins at 1:30, Ends With Dance at Night

Approximately 8,000 persons are expected by the Eagles picnic committee to attend the annual picnic of the organization to be held Sunday in Bernard's park. Two prizes to be given away, a Chevrolet sport touring car and a lot in the Clyde A. Gallagher reprint in Parson's addition, the two totaling $1,400 in value. Cash prizes also are to be given to the winners of the races and contests to be held Sunday afternoon.

The program will start at 1:30 with a concert by the Eagles 35-piece band. The band will furnish music in the afternoon and night.

An eight-piece orchestra will provide music for dancing during the afternoon and a ten-piece orchestra has been secured for Sunday night. In order to insure adequate parking space for the hundreds of cars expected, a ten-acre field has been chartered.

Plans for the picnic have been prepared under the direction of the entertainment committee headed by Jacob Krings. Other members of the committee are William A. Glasgow, F. C. Gerry, Stanley A. Cutler, Clyde A. Gallagher, William McDermott, A. B. Canst, John H. Endres, J. J. Daggett, H. Zarbock, C. H. Warnke, and Charles A. Kraft.

F. R. A. Members Leave for Marinette Meeting

Members of the Madison assembly of the Fraternal Reserve association left over the week-end for Marinette to attend the state convention of the organization to be held Wednesday and Thursday. Others left Monday and the final delegation will go on Tuesday.

Twenty-one local members signified their intentions of attending. The local women's degree staff will enter competitions at the convention.

Madisonians who will attend are: J. J. Deuschbach, C. A. Mallory, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Engen, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Langley, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Whitmore, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Pearson, Miss Angeline Ley, Mrs. J. R. McGillican, Mrs. E. A. Dolph, Mrs. Theodore Churchill, Miss Margaret Burns, Mrs. Vincent Sheehan, Mrs. C. E. Geiger, Miss Vera Coburn and Miss Ethel Geiger.

HOW I LOST 50 POUNDS

In 2 Months Without Diets, Exercise, Rollers or Massage.

New French Method Explained by Mme. Elaine of New York.

"I did not have to go through strenuous exercises, nor did I have to go through diets, which generally put on flesh instead of taking it off. I took only one week's treatment with the French method, and I lost 50 pounds. I was fortunate enough while in New York to find out the secret with which millionaires, French actresses and beautiful women of Paris keep their figures slender. It was I, easily and gradually lose 30 pounds, but the reduction was lasting. I had never gained a pound since stopping the treatment. I feel and look years younger, and my health has greatly improved with this wonderful discovery. No matter how fat you are, you may do just as I did and easily lose a few pounds every week without any dieting. Simply go to any good drug store, get a package of SAN-GRI-NAL, and start on it. It is the formula of a French physician, not sold with a money-back guarantee."

SAN-GRI-NAL is now available at Menges Pharmacy, Kanebols, or Andrey A. Mayers.

Billy Blakeslee Wins Pro Golf Title; Hackbarth Is Second

Link Mark Broken By Kenoshan

Scores a 65 for Total of 144; Madison Star Has 148

BY HANK CASSERLY
Jack Blakeslee, Kenosha professional established himself as the premier golfer in Wisconsin yesterday when he won the Wisconsin State professional golf championship with an astonishing 65 over the Maple Bluff course which carries a par of 72.

After a morning round of 79 in which did not show more than passing fair golf, he cut into the afternoon round, knocked over ten birdies, five on each nine, and should have had at least one more. His play was almost perfect on all shots and in spots was phenomenal. His putting during the afternoon round was the best of the tournament, although on the 18th green a bid for a par four hung on the lip of the cup, and he was forced to take a 6 when on each more on would have given him a 64.

Hackbarth Takes Second
Although he far outstripped his opponents with a 79-65-144, John Hackbarth, of the Black Hawk Country Club, came in second. His morning round was a 77 for 143, and he took a 77 for his afternoon round, which combined with his morning score gave him a 150 for 293. He was defeated by Blakeslee by a score of 144 to 148.

A certain player known as a "very ordinary" batter, who probably hadn't made a dozen hits off Dinneen in as many years, made five in one game.
"When that fellow can make five hits in five times up, I ought to be a pitcher," remarked Dinneen. A few days later, he did.

Just at present there are a half dozen star pitchers in the major leagues who are passing through the experience that comes to every pitcher, the loss of the fast one.

It is surprising how quickly the batter gets wise to the situation and to take advantage of it.
The other day while sitting on the home team's bench prior to the start of the game, I listened to three or four great hitters discussing a trio of American League pitchers. They would be unkind to mention names.

"You don't need to worry about his fast spitter any more, it's no longer breaks, just tumbles," remarked one player.
"So and so is about through," said another player. "He doesn't throw you 10 fast ones in a game, knowing that, the rest of his stuff is easy."

All of which makes it seem that the loss of the fast ball is a real tragedy in the life of every pitcher.

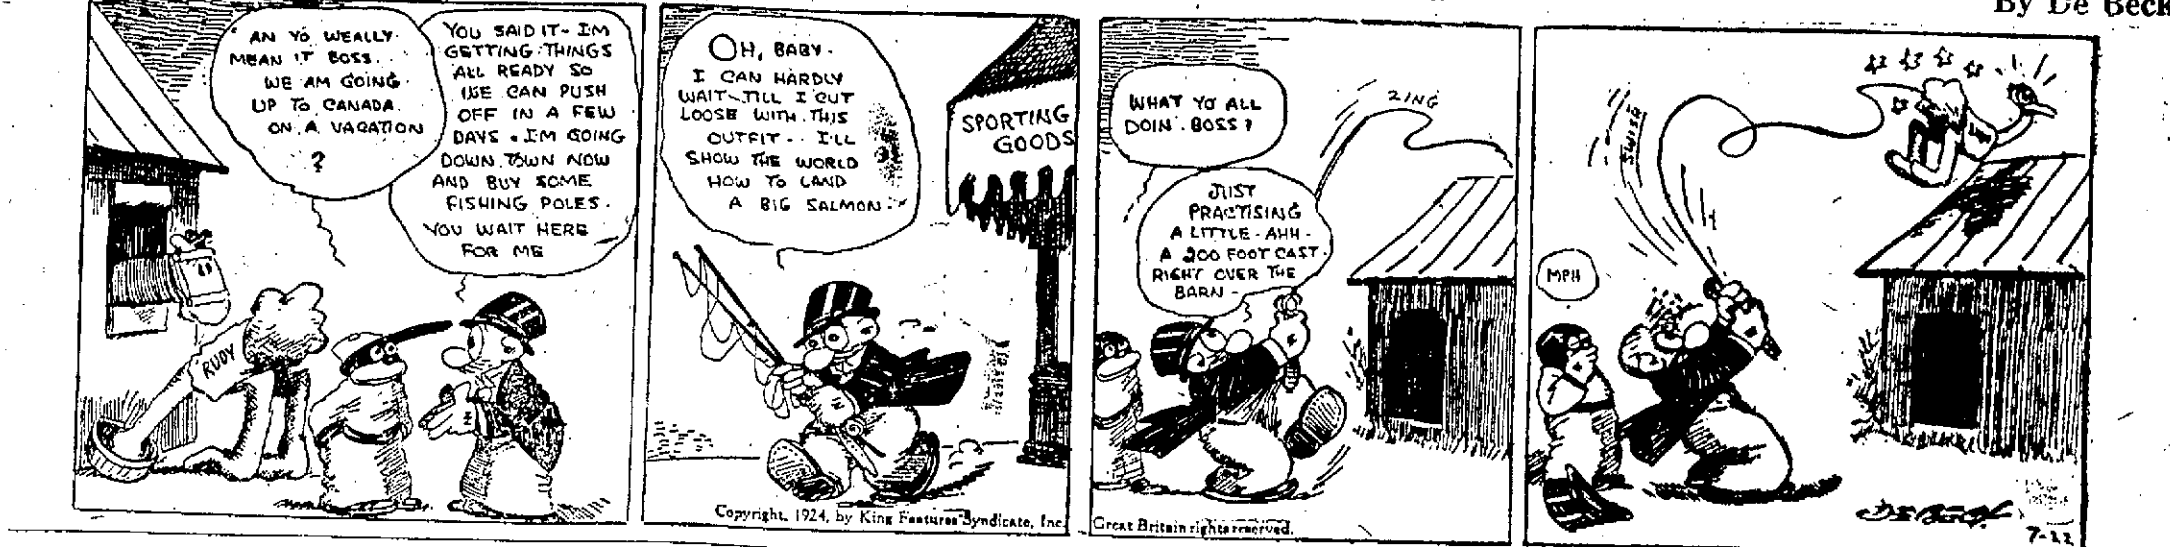

Hanson Has Weight Edge In Bout Here
"Kid" Hanson, one time defender of Madison's laurels in the wrestling game, is returning to this city Friday night for a meeting with Jimmy Demetral, contender for the world's middleweight title. The affair between the two mat men will be settled in the auditorium of Olin park, the program opening at 8:30 p. m.

There is a big division of opinion among the local fans as to which of the pair will issue forth the victor in this fight. Hanson, of course, is a light heavyweight, and will have an advantage in avoiding a which will run up between 10 and 20 pounds. This will count, however, although the Greek is needed for his success in whipping men heavier than himself. The fans who witness the bout Friday night will see in Hanson a much more polished grappler than they saw in him when he was making his headquarters in Madison about four years ago.

On the same card will be the Nipponese champion, Matty McShane, who takes on Carl Van Wagoner, former middleweight champ of Madison.

Warden made a big hit with his fight at the last program when he met Tommy Cannon. Cannon, a wrestling partner of Hanson, was defeated under the decision. The fans went to see the fight, and the day event was on sale. The program was a success and Hanson's brilliant victory.

Ward's Homer With Two On Wins First Game; Tigers Lose

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO—New York went back into first place in the close American league pennant race by winning both games of a double header from Chicago by scores of 8 to 3 and 12 to 10, while Detroit was beaten by Philadelphia.

Faber pitched a good game in the opener, but his mates played bad baseball behind him. Ward's homer with two men on bases gave the champions three runs, and later Schlang's four bagger with a man on base made victory more certain. Babe Ruth hit his first homer of the season in the second game.

Tigers Fall Before Lamar
DETROIT—Connie Mack's Athletics knocked the Detroit Tigers out of first place in an extraordinary game here Monday, when they took a spurt in the eleventh and scored three runs on a walk, a sacrifice, a single and a home run by Lamar.

Spokes 2, Griffs 1
CLEVELAND—Cleveland made it two out of three from Washington when Clevelander outpitched Mogridge, Cleveland winning 2 to 1.

Reds 3, Dodgers 2
BROOKLYN—After Osborne had allowed three runs on a single, a sacrifice and five passes with two men on in the first inning, Babe Ruth, Brooklyn's star, hit a home run in the second, and later Schlang's four bagger with a man on base made victory more certain. Babe Ruth hit his first homer of the season in the second game.

Phillies 12, Cubs 11
PHILADELPHIA—The Chicago Cubs lost a hard hitting contest to Philadelphia by the score of 12 to 11. Both teams used four pitchers and all were hit freely. The Cubs' lead of two runs was wiped out by Wilson with a home run into the fifth with two on.

Pirates 5, Braves 2
BOSTON—Pitcher Yde of Pittsburgh, held Boston to seven hits over his game, 5 to 2, and ran his string of straight victories to seven. A running catch by Rigbee in deep left prevented at last two Boston runs from scoring. The Pirates made five double plays.

Boston 10, Browns 5
ST. LOUIS—Robertson's double for the Browns, tied the score for the Browns, but the Boston Red Sox came back with a five run rally in the tenth winning 10 to 5. Urban Shocker pitched almost a perfect ball in the first six innings, but weakened in the seventh allowing five hits for three runs.

NEW YORK—St. Louis National's evened their series with New York here winning the fourth game of the series, 6 to 0. Allen Sotherton is only the second pitcher to shut out the Giants this season. Bottomley hit a home run off Maugh with two men on base in the eighth inning.

Hank Casserly's Column

Jack Blakeslee demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt that he is the best of the professional golfers in the state of Wisconsin by his exhibition of yesterday. Blakeslee won the pro-am at a tournament on Sunday when he paired with Dick Cavanaugh. He turned in the low total for the 10 best ball play with a score of 68.

Following this great showing many golfers didn't give him much chance Monday's 36 hole medal play, figuring that few golfers could keep up such a pace for two consecutive days.

The predictions of the wise ones seemed to be justified at the conclusion of the first 18 holes when Blakeslee turned in cards of 30-40 for a total of 70.

After a rest for lunch, however, the Kenosha pro went to work with renewed vigor and scored a 33 for the first nine, which was four under par. With this score and victory within striking distance, Blakeslee played the final nine holes in a superb manner, turning in a score of 32, three under par.

On the 18th green he missed a three foot put by inches and the gallery groaned. Blakeslee should have had a four, but the strain he was laboring under began to tell and his put was a fizzle.

His total for the second 18 holes of 65 breaks the course record of 69 made by Colin Kidd years ago for the local course. When Kidd made his score the fairways were baked and the ball got a long roll. The course was a bit shorter at that time also, according to the older members of Maple Bluff.

A gallery of 150 or more followed the Kenosha star for the last round and applauded nearly every shot made. Part of this gallery was on hand to see the fact that Blakeslee was paired with Guy Martin, pro at the Maple Bluff club.

Martin was having plenty of hard luck and being paired with a man that shot such phenomenal golf as did his opponent was up against it still more. Guy turned in cards of 78-77 for a total of 155, which gave him a quadruple tie for fifth place.

The honor of the local golfers was upheld by John Hackbarth, pro of the Black Hawk club. At the conclusion of the morning round Hackbarth turned in a card of 71, which was one under par, and put him in the golden chair for the championship.

The first nine holes in the afternoon proved his undoing as he missed a couple of easy puts and was slightly off in his entire game and took 40 for the long nine. This proved to be the beginning of the end and as far as the Black Hawk club, many of whom were present to congratulate him, his pro on his splendid showing. By his victory in gaining second place Hackbarth was awarded a silver medal and $125 cash.

Martin Croub, the Janesville professional, secured fourth place which kept a considerable amount of the prize money in southern Wisconsin.

Neil McIntyre, defending champion, was forced to be content with fourth money, turning in a total score of 154. McIntyre, while losing his title, was great even in defeat, and was one of the first to congratulate the winner as he left the green at the end of the 36 holes.

Christiansen, Topp May Be Put In Lineup

Blues Leave Tomorrow for Games With Neenah-Menasha

"Hank" La Hail, one of the leading pitchers of the Madison Blues, has turned in his suit and several relations with the local ball club. Eddie Lenahan when interviewed this morning stated, "La Hail turned in his suit for his own good and the good of the local ball club." Henry has been in a pitching slump of late and was in a rut. He decided he wasn't giving full value to the Blues, hence his resignation. Another hurrier will be signed to fill his shoes. Topp, who is the premier hurler of the Tri-County league, and Herbert Christiansen, Wisconsin baseball captain of this year are two of the possibilities.

Lenahan however spent Monday in Chicago and those close to him figure he signed a southpaw while in the Windy City. A port-side would strengthen the Blues on the mound as the other pitchers Bowman and Dodge are right handers. The Blues leave tomorrow morning to play two games with the Neenah-Menasha team of the State league on Wednesday and Thursday.

The week end will be occupied with contests between the Blues and Glickerson's Union Giants.

Local Woman Golfer Stars At Meet

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO—Miss Dorothy Page, Maple Bluff Country Club, Madison, Wis., leads all contestants in the women's western junior golf championship having scored a one point advantage yesterday over Miss Josephine Morse, South Shore, the present champion, who made 93.

In today's first match round Miss Page meets Miss Helen Kiddoo, Beverly Hills, who qualified with 115.

SMITH WINS DECISION
MEMPHIS—Jimmy Smith, Marked Tree, Ark., won a decision over Benny Harvey, New Orleans, light weight, in 8 rounds.

O'DOWD-RYAN DRAW
LOUISVILLE—Tim O'Dowd of Atlanta and Tommy Ryan of Buffalo, fought a 12 round draw.

Conference and but for a strained arm might have won the championship for Illinois university. He is now a member of the St. Paul American Association club and has made a fine showing in the two games he has started, winning both starts.

REPORT OF THE MARKETS

July 29, 1924

Corn Reaches
New Season
Record Today

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO.—On fresh waves of buying today, corn, oats and provisions, all well as hogs reached new high price records for the season. Wheat, however, made a sharp downturn in value during the early dealings and heavy profit-taking sales soon brought a decided setback in other grains. On the bulge in prices, May delivery of corn reached as high as 1.01 a bushel, Sept. 1.00, Oct. 99.50, and Dec. 99.00, all record-breakers so far in 1924.

WHEAT.—Favorable weather in Canada and the heavy movement of wheat from the West, however, largely responsible for the downward swing of wheat prices today and for the reversal of the action of corn and other grain after an early advance. Wheat opening prices, which ranged from 1 1/2 to 1 3/4, were followed by heavy fluctuations, but carried the market as a whole about two cents under yesterday's finish.

Subsequently, heavy profit-taking sales checked rallies in the wheat market, despite an advance in Liverpool and notwithstanding favorable export business in United States wheat. Rains in the Canadian north, however, were the chief bearish factor. The close was nervous, 1 1/2 to 1 3/4, and Sept. 1.00, Oct. 99.50, and Dec. 99.00.

CORN.—Corn started unchanged to 1 1/2 higher, Sept. 1.00, Oct. 99.50, and Dec. 99.00. The buying fever, however, began to tell and the corn market underwent a sudden fall of about 2 1/2 before beginning to rally.

Wheat market, however, for corn growth tended later to ease the corn market somewhat, but renewed buying lifted prices again at the last. The close was nervous, 1 1/2 to 1 3/4, and Sept. 1.00, Oct. 99.50, and Dec. 99.00.

OATS.—Oats at the beginning ranged from 1 1/2 to 1 3/4, and Sept. 1.00, Oct. 99.50, and Dec. 99.00.

PROVISIONS.—Provisions made a jump of 50 cents in some cases, particularly a sensational advance of hog values.

Worth a Dollar a Minute

HOW would you like to earn $1 a minute? It would give you an income of about $150,000 a year. A great many Americans make that much and more. The system that permits them to pile up so much wealth is countenanced by the public because every one figures that, as long as the system exists, there is always a chance for him to get into the $150,000-a-year class.

We are all millionaires at heart. The millionaire merely represents the common goal.

HERE'S an interesting experiment in psychology. Take almost any man with an income of $1 a minute. Let him by accident drop $1 through a sidewalk grating.

What will he do? You know. He'll stop, no matter how rushed he is, and try to recover the lost $1.

He'll spend at least $10 worth of time trying to get back that tantalizing $1 that has slipped away from him.

Many millionaires attend directors' meetings just to get the $5 goldpiece that is paid for attendance.

WE smile at the man who wastes $10 of time trying to recover a lost $1. And yet we all do the same thing in principle.

We continue to use worn-out devices long after they become more expensive than new devices. For instance, many a farmer—rather than buy a new faucet for his oil barrel—uses the leaking old faucet. He collects the drippings in a tin can—but by evaporation loses every few weeks more than the cost of a new faucet.

Supposed economy oftentimes is extravagance.

NO matter how much or how little money we have, our greatest wealth is time. Nature gives us just so many minutes to spend between birth and death.

The precious minutes are ticking away fast. But how many squander their most valuable minutes? It's foolish to overwork. Man needs to spend minutes as well as dollars for recreation to keep him balanced and efficient mentally and physically. Few of us, though, spend our time as shrewdly as we spend our spare money.

Money fortune depends on not being a spendthrift with time, quite as much as on saving money.

When You Go Back Home

IT IS the unwritten law of every Hindu that he shall revisit the place of his birth at least once every 12 years. Dhan Gopal Mukerji writes in the Atlantic Monthly.

He advances the novel theory that a wave of homesickness comes to people in cycles or periods 12 years apart.

How does this match your own experience?

A TRIP to the Old Home Town after an absence of 12 years is nearly always disappointing, even dismal. The thrill of anticipation increases as your train or touring auto nears the destination where your childhood was staged.

You find many new buildings, though a lot of the old landmarks remain.

The big change is in the people. Friends of long ago have scattered to the far points of the compass. Many have passed on into eternity. Of those who have remained in the Old Home Town only a few are "the same as ever."

Others have changed so much that you hardly recognize them.

It is interesting to observe how Bill has improved and Walter deteriorated.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Says La Follette Will Get 251 Votes

Frank Putnam Analyzes National Situation; Says La Follette Will Get Three Electoral Votes Less Than Davis; Predicts That Coolidge Will Be Defeated.

(To The Editor)—Either Wisconsin, West Virginia or Montana will pretty certainly supply the next president of the United States. My study of the situation, including a careful comparison of the campaigns of 1912 and 1924, leads me to the conclusion that La Follette, Davis and Wheeler have about equal chances to succeed President Coolidge, and that Mr. Coolidge has little if any better chance to succeed himself than President Taft had in 1912. Either La Follette or Davis may win a majority of the electoral college. If neither wins such majority neither, probably, will be able to muster the 25 votes needed for the election of a president in the House of Representatives. In that event, the man chosen vice president by the senate will become the next president. In the senate only the two vice presidential candidates running first and second in the popular election can be balloted on. These two candidates are virtually certain to be Mr. Bryan and Mr. Wheeler. In the senate as now constituted, Mr. Wheeler would pretty certainly defeat Mr. Bryan.

Three strongly supported presidential tickets are in the field. In 1912, Mr. Taft, like Mr. Coolidge in 1924, was the Republican party nominee to succeed himself; Mr. Wilson, like Mr. Davis, was the Democratic party nominee, and Mr. Roosevelt, like Mr. La Follette, was an independent candidate. Mr. Wilson, on his public utterances, was the most radical of the three candidates. Mr. Taft had the ultra-conservative support. Mr. Roosevelt had some radical backing, and a good deal in a quiet way, of conservative support. His campaign manager, Mr. Perkins, was a member of the Morgan banking firm. Mr. Wilson got 6,286,214 popular votes; Mr. Roosevelt 4,126,020; Mr. Taft, 3,483,922; Mr. Debs, socialist, 897,011; Mr. Chafin, prohibitionist, 208,933; Mr. Reimer, socialist labor 29,079. Mr. Wilson got approximately 42 per cent of the total popular vote; Mr. Roosevelt, 27 per cent; Mr. Taft, 23 per cent; Mr. Debs, 6 per cent. Because 37 of the 48 states—all but the solid south group—were carried by pluralities. Mr. Wilson got 433 votes in the electoral college; Mr. Roosevelt, 88; Mr. Taft, 8.

There was in 1912 no such clear-cut and easily seen dividing line between the interests represented by the three tickets as there is in 1924. In 1912 both Mr. Wilson and Mr. Roosevelt were popularly regarded as progressive; only Mr. Taft was rated a real conservative. Mr. Taft was perfectly satisfactory to the big business interests. Mr. Roosevelt, as stated above, had Morgan bank backing. Mr. Wilson was brought into politics, as governor of New Jersey, and first promoted as a presidential candidate, by George Harvey, then as now a representative of the Morgan banking firm and allied interests in the publishing field. None of the three 1912 candidates was wholly and unmistakably a free agent as regards the big business interests, as Mr. La Follette is in 1924.

This year the big business interests have two candidates unmistakably their own—Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Davis. Mr. Coolidge, like Mr. Taft in 1912, is eminently satisfactory to those interests. Mr. Davis as a League of Nations advocate and as the Morgan bank's attorney, is obviously equally satisfactory to the great financial interests which this year appear to be chiefly interested in getting more money out of the American people to pay Europe's war debts. Only Mr. La Follette clearly, unmistakably and irreconcilably represents the discontent of the masses of the people with the long reign of graft, corruption and special privilege which has existed under administrations by both of the old parties for more than 30 years past. Either Mr. Davis or Mr. Coolidge, if elected, would owe the election to one of the old party machines, and to the great financial and industrial interests which for a generation past have controlled both of these machines. Only Mr. La

The brightest boy in school, like as not, will be found holding down an unimportant job at low pay. The supposed dunce may startle you by his great success.

The net result is a conclusion that very few people turn out as others expect they will. Time is the acid test. It destroys the weak. It unearths and elevates the strong.

ON YOUR visit to the Old Home Town you meet a childhood chum. After a little coaching, he remembers your identity. You talk over the old days and exchange ideas and philosophies of life.

Gradually, as you study the crony of long ago, you sense that you are talking to a 95 per cent different person than the one you formerly knew.

Time has changed his body, his thinking, his character.

And you, to him, have undergone as great a change.

Personality is not a fixed and permanent thing. It changes so much as time passes that it's doubtful if we'd recognize present associates at all if we met them 500 years from now in some other world. Or even 50 years from now, on earth.

Bright and Brief

IT IS NEVER the rich people nor the poor people who "talk poor," but it is always and inevitably the bad managers.
—Kathleen Norris, author.

HOW I would like to know, can a man who has a medium of faith, believe that the world is growing worse. The logic of the present would convince the greatest pessimist.
—Thomas Riley Marshall.

Follette, if elected, would be quite free to use the great powers of the presidency to break the grip of the grafters, corruptionists and special privilege holders upon the government and to restore the rule of honesty and the square deal.

As the campaign advances, big business (if it has not already done so), will, obviously, be forced to choose one of its two candidates for whom to concentrate its support. Both cannot win. If conservative, pro-League of Nations support be divided 50-50 between Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Davis, leaving Mr. La Follette to gather the liberal-radical and anti-League of Nations votes, Mr. La Follette will win as decisively as Mr. Wilson won in 1912, by means of pluralities in a great majority of the states. Mr. Davis is, for sound political reasons, the better candidate for big business to support. He starts with the electoral votes of the Solid South assured. Mr. Coolidge starts with none of the 48 states equally sure to give him its electoral votes. In a Democratic year—and apart from the La Follette candidacy 1924, following four years of extremely unpopular Republican party rule at Washington, is a Democratic year—Mr. Davis has a far better chance than Mr. Coolidge to win a plurality of the popular vote, and thus the electoral vote, in New York and other eastern and central states. It seems safe, then, to assume that big business will concentrate its support for Mr. Davis, as its one best bet.

The race, it seems certain, will be between the Davis-Bryan and the La Follette-Wheeler tickets, with the Coolidge-Dawes ticket trailing far in the rear. Figuring from this assumption I submit (subject to correction by the voters on November 4), the following forecast of states likely to be carried by each of the three tickets:

For Coolidge and Dawes—Massachusetts, 18 electoral votes; Vermont, 4; Utah, 4. Total, 26.
For Davis and Bryan—Alabama 12; Arkansas 9; Connecticut 7; Delaware 3; Florida 6; Georgia 14; Indiana 15; Kentucky 13; Louisiana 10; Maine 6; Maryland 6; Mississippi 10; New Jersey 14; New York 45; New Hampshire 4; North Carolina 12; Rhode Island 5; South Carolina 9; Tennessee 12; Texas 20; Virginia 12; West Virginia 8. Total, 254.

For La Follette and Wheeler—Arizona 3; California 13; Colorado 6; Idaho 4; Illinois 29; Iowa 13; Kansas 10; Michigan 15; Minnesota 12; Missouri 18; Montana 4; Nebraska 8; Nevada 3; New Mexico 3; North Dakota 5; Ohio 24; Oklahoma 10; Oregon 5; Pennsylvania 33; South Dakota 5; Washington 7; Wisconsin 13; Wyoming 3. Total, 251.

There are 531 votes in the electoral college; 266 is a majority.—Frank Putnam.

CONDITIONS AT CHIPPEWA FALLS

(To The Editor)—There have been so many articles printed about the investigation that was held at the northern colony and training school I have made a personal investigation of conditions at the institution and I have been very careful and fair in doing so. I find that conditions here at the institution could not be better and I cannot find where there has ever been any mistreatment in this school since Dr. A. L. Beier has had charge. The talk that the children are not properly fed and not treated in a right manner is false. The investigation was started by some of the jealous employees and such employees should be discharged from the institution for the reason that they are working against the administration. I have been acquainted with Dr. Beier for a great many years and I have always found him an honest, upright man in every way. He is a tireless worker and is sincere in his work. I am glad to think that the state board of control consists of a body of men and also the governor that are too big to believe in such rot, and to let some one with their petty jealousy waive them of what they know about this man. I am not interested on either side, but it is a terrible thing when a few jealous people will play such rot on innocent people to satisfy their own wants.—A Progressive Citizen of Chippewa Falls.

The State Press

Ira S. Lorenz resigns from the Republican national committee, explaining that he supports the candidacy of Senator La Follette and his act will leave him free to work for his election. The nub of this, although Mr. Lorenz's statement does not say it in so many words, is that he feels the falseness of a position on a committee whose chief business it is to work for the Republican party, when it is in his heart and intention to work against the party. Of course he quits, to retain his self-respect.—Milwaukee Journal.

A Thought

Let the lying lips be put to silence; which speak grievous things proudly and contemptuously against the righteous.—Ps. 31:18.

Lies can destroy, but not create.—Tupper.

Uncle Sam says 1924 will be a big year in two ways. He hopes to announce then the final paying off of the war debt. The treasury's plans are based that way. The date will be later if prices drop materially and the people's incomes are correspondingly cut, thereby reducing money available for taxation.

In 1924, also, Uncle Sam expects to have the date set by experts when national prohibition went into effect. They didn't kid themselves that it could be brought about overnight. One generation, at least.

FLOATED

The Wall Street jackpot grows. In the first half of the year 1408 million dollars worth of stocks and bonds were added to the listings on the N. Y. Stock Exchange. The bonds totaled roughly twice as much as the stocks. And over 271 million dollars represented foreign bonds. We are rapidly approaching the day when the entire national wealth will be blanketed by securities. It will be a big mortgage, and everyone will pay interest on it.

OUT OUR WAY By Williams

Looking Backward

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Perry H. Smith, former vice president of the Northwestern road, states that the railroads made a bad mistake in opposing the enforcement of the Potter law and arousing public sentiment against them. * * * More than 200 people are drowned in floods that destroy much property at Pittsburg. * * * Governor Taylor and his staff will address the "Light Guards" at Milwaukee when the executive returns from Iowa. * * * Grasshoppers are destroying grain crops in Nebraska. * * * Several large insurance companies have gone bankrupt in the last few weeks because of excessive losses and overhead expenses.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Generals Toral and Barria are arraigned in court martial proceedings at Madrid for surrendering Santiago to the American army. * * * Over 4,000 Prospect people are in Madison to attend the grocers' picnic which is being held in the city. * * * The Madison Street Railway company announce a wage increase for their operators from $40 to $42 per month. * * * The cost of running the state charity and penal institutions during July was $42,140, according to the official statements. This is the lowest figure ever recorded for a monthly expense summary. * * * Frank W. Cantwell has purchased the corner lot at W. Doty and S. Carroll streets from Mrs. John H. Clark for $6,000. He will build a large warehouse there.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Austria has declared war on Serbia and two army corps have marched on Belgrade. * * * Madison Austrians are preparing to leave the country to join their respective regiments. * * * England has ordered her fleet to remain intact in case hostilities break out immediately. * * * Wheat jumped six cents per bushel on the Chicago market on war news, but reacted badly on information from New York that conditions in Europe had settled somewhat in the last 24 hours. * * * The Charles Thuringer store has been sold to Thuringer and Garbutt. * * * The $278,000 sewage disposal plant was formally opened today.

Moonlight bathing has proved so popular at several English beaches that "electric moons" are to be installed for use on cloudy nights.

There is a collection of nearly 380,000 finger prints in Scotland Yard.

STATE POLITICS

Wants Co. Tickets

Judge Luck Asks That Candidates Be Placed in Race Throughout State

Judge Martin F. Luck Democratic candidate for governor, had requested that county tickets be placed in the race in every part of the state, and the completion of the ticket in Milwaukee county is in accordance with the wishes of the gubernatorial candidate.

Assemblyman John W. Eber, Tenth district, Milwaukee, announced his candidacy for reelection. The district comprises the Sixteenth and Twenty-third wards.

Davis As Lawyer

Would Not Have Been Invited Into Firm if Views Were Not O. K.

After the Davis nomination W. J. Bryan said that his opposition to Mr. Davis was "not personal." Just because the basis of the opposition to Mr. Davis' nomination was impersonal, it is as valid after his nomination as it was before. Mr. Davis is an honest conservative, but the fact of his honesty does not render his conservatism any more acceptable. Of course Mr. Davis will not be the "tool of Wall Street" nor of anyone else. He will be the master of his own attitude and his own preferences. But, unfortunately, his attitude and preferences, by native bent reinforced by confirming experience, honestly coincide with the attitude and preferences of the powerful economic and industrial leaders of the country. The Christian Science Monitor, in a warm appreciation of Mr. Davis, after properly rejecting the naive notion that because his firm is closely associated with J. P. Morgan and Company, the Standard Oil and others, Mr. Davis as president would be the conscious "tool of Wall Street," thus states the pith of the matter: "What may be said with probable justice is that, if he had not been recognized as being in accord with the general convictions which animate the great figures in that center of American finances, he would never have been invited to become a member of the firm."—New Republic.
